It is a privilege for Julien's to bring this collection of professional property belonging to Marilyn Monroe over four hundred books written about Marilyn the things left unsaid about such a timeless icon. So influential and respected figures of the 20th century commented on her beauty as well as the undeniable intelligence of the person behind the Hollywood

This collection spans the early period of Marilyn's with her divorce documents from first husband, Joe, just one month after signing her first contract with officially changing her name from Norma Jean M. Marilyn Monroe in 1946; to correspondence from father Isidore dated 1962. Of particular note is a of a red rose executed by Marilyn and inscribed to F. Kennedy on June 1st 1962 her 36th and last b

In addition to these important documents and art numerous pieces from both Marilyn's personal wardrobe. From her fashionably sexy, grey halter "Make Love" or her simple skirts and sweater set; theme throughout Marilyn's wardrobe was one of and understanding. She knew and understood what designs accentuated her best features and when garment that worked, she bought more than one

Marilyn once said, "I don't mind living in a man's can be a woman in it." The sense of feminine style demonstrated by the items in this collection are a success in "being" a woman who embraced her sexuality in a man's world.
